

Working while you are studying

There are a number of possibilities to work in Canada while you are studying. Some of these options require a work permit, while others do not.

- Qualifying work study programs, where the work forms an integral part of the program of studies;
- On campus employment in qualifying educational institutions, such as Canadian universities, community colleges, a CEGEP, publicly funded trade or technical schools or a Canadian private institution authorized by provincial statute to confer degrees.
- Off campus employment in certain provinces which have Federal Provincial agreements;
- Students who are temporarily destitute.

The information on CanadaVisaLaw.com's Web Site has been prepared so you may learn more about the services we offer. These materials do not constitute legal advice, and are not intended to provide specific advice about your particular situation. Because the law constantly changes and is subject to varying interpretations, we urge you to contact us regarding any specific problem you may have, and we advise you not to take, or refrain from taking, any action based upon materials in this Web Site without consulting legal counsel.