Robert graduated with a Bachelor of Laws from England, and was called to the Bar of England and Wales.

He then returned to his native Singapore where he practiced for 15 years. During this time, amongst other things, he:

- Served the Law Society of Singapore as an elected Council member;
- Tutored Business Law at the Nanyang Technological University;
- Was the managing partner of a full-service law firm.

After immigrating to Canada with his family, Robert was admitted as a Barrister and Solicitor in British Columbia, and practices exclusively in the areas of citizenship and immigration law.

Robert's practice focus is on immigration litigation, and he has appeared:

- At the various Divisions of the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada, handling Admissibility Hearings, Sponsorship Appeals, Removal Order Appeals, as well as Residency Appeals.
- Before the Federal Court of Canada on administrative Judicial Review applications.

Robert handles immigration enforcement cases, including assisting clients who may be criminally inadmissible to Canada.

Robert is an online instructor for the UBC Certificate in Immigration course, and was actively involved with the Canadian Bar Association, serving as the Secretary of the BC Immigration Section from 2013 to 2015.

He is regularly featured on Chinese radio and TV programs in Vancouver, including:

- Expert's Hour on TalentVision
- Living Q&A on Fairchild Radio FM96.1
- Monday Forum on LS Times TV

Robert is also a regular speaker at seminars and conferences, including:

- The CBA National Immigration Conference;
- The Continuing Legal Education Society of BC conference;
- Immigration Education Alliance (IMEDA) conference;
- Canadian Association of Professional Immigration Consultants (CAPIC) conference.

With his cross-cultural background, experience, and language proficiencies, Robert has helped immigration clients from all over the world.
